THE NORDIC CAPACITY CALCULATION METHODOLOGY PROJECT

In this newsletter, we would like to update you with the progress of the Nordic CCM project.

Implementation timeline of the DA flow-based methodology

The Nordic CCM project expects to start the external parallel run period in March 2022.

Progress of the internal parallel run

The TSOs are able to perform and analyse the flow-based market coupling simulations. The first Nordic CCM internal parallel run market report is published on the Nordic RSC website.

Link: <https://nordic-rsc.net/wp-content/uploads/2021/12/Internal-Parallel-Run-CCM-Market-report-W.35-W.36.pdf>

Please note that there are disclaimers to the information of this market report. The disclaimers can be found in the market report.

Intraday capacity calculation

The consultation of the ATC extraction method closed on November 8. The CCM project will share the ATCE results obtained during the external parallel run with the stakeholders and will keep the stakeholders posted on the optimization algorithm and its parameters. The methodological questions will be addressed in the updated ATCE document, as well as on the CCM project website, after the ATCE results are available.

Stakeholder event on December 16

The Nordic TSOs organised a stakeholder meeting on December 16, 2021. The purpose of the event was to elaborate the observations of the flow-based market coupling simulations. Material from the event can be found on the Nordic RSC website.

Thank you very much for your involvement in realising the Nordic CCM implementation. We look forward to meeting you again in the upcoming stakeholder events in 2022.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!
